DETAILED ACTION

This office action follows a response filed on May 23, 2005. Applicants have amended claims 1 and 10. New claim 14 was added. Claims 1-9 remain for prosecution.

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election with traverse of group I, claims 1-9, in the reply filed on May 23, 2005 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground that all claims are restricted to an ethylene-alpha olefin copolymer and thus belong to the same class. This is not found persuasive because of the reasons set forth in the previous office action. Specifically, the invention of group I and group II are not related inventions by necessity. As such, the requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102/35 USC § 103

- 2. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.
- 3. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Wu et al. (U.S. 6,660,894) for the same reasons set forth in the previous office action.
- 4. Claims 2-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wu et al. in view of Heilman et al. (U.S. 6,124,513) for the same reasons set forth in the previous office action.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicants traverse the rejection of claims over Wu et al., indicating that the patent does not teach isomerization in the substantial absence of molecular hydrogen. It appears that Applicants submit that the working examples do not teach such a step, and this is only because the oligomerization product passes through the hydrogenation catalyst first, followed by the isomerization catalyst. Apparently, the presence of hydrogen does not affect isomerization, and thus, the hydrogen is not removed via another outlet.

The instant claims are drawn to a related process, but the isomerization is carried out prior to hydrogenation. This particular manipulation is also an embodiment well within the teachings of Wu et al. (discussion, column 5). Proceeding further, it can be seen that Wu et al. teaches an oligomerization step carried out in the substantial absence of hydrogen (col. 5, lines 1-12).

"The oligomerization product can also be isomerized and selectively/minorly cracked by contacting the oligomerization produce with a second solid material (isomerization catalyst) comprising, consisting of, or consisting essentially of an aluminosilicate ZSM-5 zeolite to thereby produce isomerization and selective/minor cracking of at least a portion of the oligomerization product under a condition effective to cause isomerization and selective/minor cracking to occur. Reaction conditions for isomerization and selective/minor cracking of the oligomerization product can include a temperature in the range of from about 190 °C to about 240 °C; more preferably from about 200 °C to about 235 °C; and most preferably from about 210 °C to about 230 °C."

Note that hydrogen is not required, as would be expected in an isomerization reaction. This is in sharp contrast to the description of the hydrogenation step where, as the name implies, hydrogen is required (col. 4, lines 52-67).

"The oligomerization product can be hydrogenated by contacting the oligomerization product with a first solid material (hydrogenation catalyst) comprising, consisting of, or consisting essentially of a porous carrier material and a group VIII metal component to thereby produce hydrogenation of at least a portion of the oligomerization product under a condition effective to cause hydrogenation to occur. Reaction conditions for hydrogenation of the oligomerization product can include hydrogen pressure in the range of from 0 to about 2000 psi; more preferably from about 50 to about 1500 psi, and most preferably from 150 to 1000 psi."

A reference is considered for all that it teaches, and thus, it is not limited to the working examples. It is evident that Wu et al., indeed, teaches isomerization in the substantial absence of hydrogen, and therefore, Wu et al. teaches the subject matter of the instant claims. In light of this and previous discussions, the rejection of record has not been withdrawn.

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
